

Turing project at «Depalm Mechanics» ARUBA

the project - short & long term

Working alongside Depalm Corporation you will be based in their mechanics department. Trainees will have the chance to work on DPC fleet vehicles, on general maintenance and servicing. Their fleet includes, coaches, minivans, a submarine, jeeps, UTVs and of course their non-commercial vehicles.

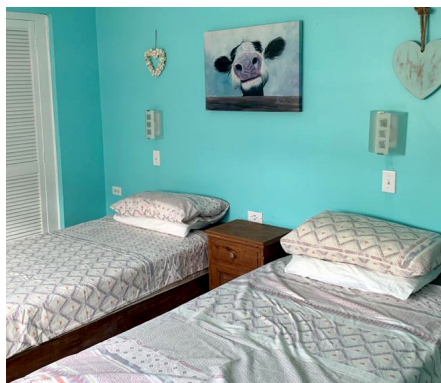

Trainees will work alone (on an individual project) or with their team and college tutors on short (2 week placements) on the maintenance of Depalm's fleet, maintaining and servicing vehicles and also learning about the different types of vehicles in a large tour company.

There may also be opportunities to be involved in reactive exercises such as vehicle breakdowns.

The working hours are on shifts of either 8am to 5 pm or 2 to 10 pm.

accommodation and meals

Trainees for this project must be able to drive they will stay in Pos Chiquito in the South of the island, in an individual or room with one other in a 4 bed house. The accommodation is based close to the beautiful beach of Mangel Halto (around 10 minutes walk) and just a couple of minutes walk from a supermarket and laundrette.
